U. S. - Russian Border No Place for Boyle To Be

By HAL BOYLE

COBURG, Germany, May 4 — The troubled frontier along which the Russian and American occupation zones in Germany rub together is like the Mexican border in the days of Pancho Villa.

Strange and exciting incidents happen daily along this artificial boundary of forest and farm land which divides the areas controlled by two great powers, whose representatives best understand each other on the black market level.

Hal Boyle

Practical-minded soldiers of the two nations get along quite chummily in deals involving the smuggling of gasoline, food and cigarettes across the border. The Ivans and Joes involved in these highly illegal and highly profitable activities have learned to trust one another completely.

American military government officials have no way to gauge the extent of these border black market operations but believe them to be "extensive."

Real No Man's Land

The area on each side of the border for a kilometer or two is a "no man's land" patrolled by trigger-happy Russian guards and American trained German police where anything can happen to the unwary wanderer. Murder and mayhem go on unnoticed in gloom-thick forests where Soviet guards stage manhunts by night and day for fugitive Germans seeking to return to homes in the Russian zone and for wealth-carrying Polish Jews trying to work their way into the American zone.

"In one 20-mile sweep through this no-mans-land last winter our police found 20 bodies," said an American officer. He said most of the dead men apparently were Germans killed while crossing into Soviet territory by Red army guards whose policy is to shoot first and explain later.

Relations are cool and formal between Russian and American border authorities except for those sunshiney characters who have found that a mutual black market interest wiped out all language and political differences.

Russian boisterousness is one chief issue. American officers complain Soviet guards shoot indiscriminately into the American zone and that at night bands of 10 and 15 Russians cross over and beat up police posts manned by two or three German guards.

The Germans are armed but forbidden to fire at any men in Allied uniforms.

Much Isn't Told

"No matter what they saw in high places," one American officer told me," there is definite tension along this border.

"Groups of Russians caught in the American zone are kept overnight in the local jail and usually released to a Soviet liaison officer the next day. Any punishment is inflicted by Russian authorities."

One Russian captured by two American soldiers on the wrong side of the border was rescued in true western style by a comrade "Wild Bill Hickoksky." He threw a gun into the backs of the two Yanks and he and his pal retreated across the border while a third Russian provided covering fire with his rifle.

about it because the conflicting attitudes of Britain and Russia towards Germany are so demonstrably dangerous, so utterly reckless, so certainly self-defeating, that they can be altered under American pressure if we are clear and resolute about it.

I shall venture to make a report on the German problem in my next article.

Republican Candidate For State Representative

Primary Election Day is Tuesday, May 7th. If you are registered it is your duty to vote. Your candidate may not win but your duty will have been fulfilled.

I am one of the candidates for State Representative. If you believe that experience pays dividends, I have ten years Legislative experience in that body. I have no Platform to give to you. My Platform is my past record in the General Assembly. Budgets, Taxes and Appropriations have been my work for the past twenty-five years. The War is over and the levying of surplus taxes must be terminated. The next Assembly must either reduce taxes assessed by the State or allocate a larger portion to Local Government.

Veterans will need experience in the next General Assembly. No doubt many bills will be introduced pertaining to veterans. There is where experience counts. The House Journal shows my record on Labor, School and Township Legislation. If nominated and elected I will follow the same policy as in the past. Please be assured, that your confidence in me will not be misplaced.

As one of the Republican candidates for State Representative. I am not running for my seventh consecutive term as stated by my opponent in his political ads. No apology for my four consecutive terms. Keep experience and get real service. Your vote appreciated.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

STAINED STOVE TOP

Q. I have a white table top stove. On the part over the oven, there is some kind of stain that I have been unable to remove. Can you suggest something?

A. Use a porcelain cleaning preparation, on sale in many stores. Or make a cleaning paste by mixing a scratchless scouring powder wit hammonia. The stove should be cold while you are working on the stained part. Acid or fruit juice stains on some makes of stoves cannot be removed.

YOUR HOME TODAY and TOMORROW

by W. Wadsworth Wood

Small Additions to the Home

The present conditions surrounding building materials and the skilled labor field have made it imperative that the average homebuilder confine himself to a minimum house. Terraces, breeze-ways, outdoor dining areas, tool houses, guest cottages, and other refinements, must—for the greater number—be left for future construction, when the building situation eases.

However, there are homeowners who are finding it possible to finish small additions to their homes by using local labor of a more-or-less skilled kind, and used material or readily obtainable new material such as cement block, brick, wall board, and some of the varieties of ply-wood. Unfinished attics and basement recreation rooms are areas that appeal to the man with an urge to do something himself toward finishing his home.

There is a certain procedure to be followed by any amateur mechanic or builder who has decided to embark on a home improvement program. He should tackle the simplest of jobs. When one or two minor operations have been completed he will be ready to go on to larger projects. The procedure that must be followed is: First, lay out the job to be done so that the material will be at hand, and, second, do not attempt anything that involves skill beyond ability.

In other words, if a man has decided to build a small terrace on one side of his house, he must be capable of leveling off the ground, setting up the plain rectangular forms in level shape, estimating the number of brick needed to pave the surface of the terrace or the amount of concrete he has to order if it is to be concrete surfaced.

If the homeowner wants to erect a pergola or a trellis, he should lay out the job in rough drawing form, drive stakes at the locations of the posts or columns, measure for strips and boards, and comb the market for the required material. Local labor should be lured to dig the post-holes.

INSULATION WOULD REDUCE FUEL COSTS

Approximately $1,000,000,000 a year, or almost one half of the nation's domestic fuel bill, can be saved in the 40,000,000 American dwelling units by elimination of heat loss through roofs, ceilings, walls, windows and doors, according to surveys made by the Bureau of Mines, and statistics released on fuel conservation and home insulation. This saving would pay for almost half the 475,000 new homes needed by veterans and would form an investment basis for the construction of 2,700,000 new homes urged by President Truman to be built during 1946-47.

The answer to how this staggering sum of money can be saved is contained in just two words—proper insulation. It has been estimated that 30 per cent of home heat has been lost through windows, 25 per cent through cracks and crevices and 45 per cent through walls, ceilings, floors and the roof.

Glass is a rapid conductor of heat. The many square feet in window-panes in the average home build up heat loss. This can be practically eliminated by the use of storm windows to create a relatively dead air space between the two layers of glass.

Cracks and crevices not only permit heat to escape, but are a common source of drafts, dust, soot and water damage. A local builder or contractor should locate and seal these properly and also check the home-heating unit to insure its highest efficiency.

The other factors accounting for 45 per cent of the heat loss are the greatest, but are the simplest to correct. This is done by insulating the walls and ceilings with some type of mineral wool material. Application of mineral wool insulation by a competent craftsman, in the form of blankets or batts in new construction, or in loose wool or pellet form blown into the walls in old construction, will effectively stop this major percentage of heat loss, and affect tremendous savings in fuel.

HOME BUILDERS VIEW NEW KITCHEN IDEAS

Greater convenience than the housewife has ever before enjoyed is assured by the many accessories and appliances recently shown at the exposition of the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago.

Some kitchen cabinets, for instance, are equipped with sliding, translucent glass doors. This feature eliminates the danger of bumping one's head, or of chipping the finish when metal doors open back to back. The glass doors are easily removed for cleaning.

A sliding drainboard of enameled steel, which lifts off like a serving tray completely covers one compartment of an enameled cast iron sink. This sliding drainboard is shown with a sink and tray fixture. The tray is approximately 6 inches deeper than the sink compartment and commodious enough for small washings.

Another new feature is the especially designed fluorescent lighting fixtures concealed in the bottom of the kitchen cabinet. The shelves are perforated so that the light illuminates all of the interior. Cabinets are also narrower at the bottom to allow greater head room for the woman standing at work near one. Integral with one cabinet are pegs for beaters and mixers, and brackets for handled utensils. Twelve hooks for cups are provided in another cabinet.

Cabinet drawers by one manufacturer are set on brass runners, which guarantee that the more the housewife uses them the more noiseless they become.

Reminiscent of the cover of grandfather's desk that folded out of sight, are other cabinet doors beautifully designed in wood and aluminum. An attractive innovation is the development of cabinet handles that match the fittings on the sink. Both are of plastic.

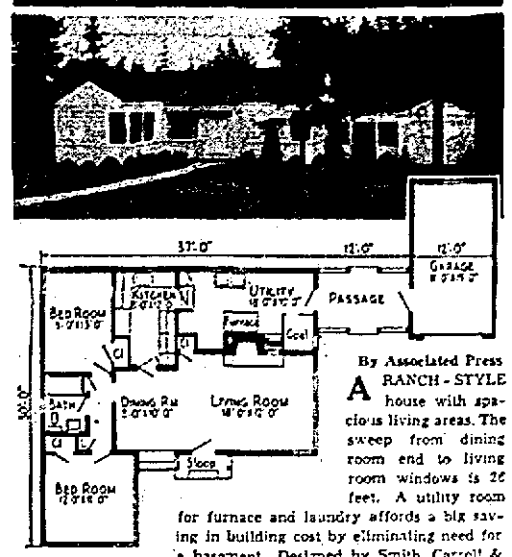
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



By Associated Press

A RANCH-STYLE house with spacious living areas. The sweep from dining room end to living room windows is 26 feet. A utility room for furnace and laundry affords a big saving in building cost by eliminating need for a basement. Designed by Smith, Carroll & Johanson, architects of Seattle, Wash., the house calls for a large plot or rural site. Exterior walls are white clapboard and the roofing is asphalt shingles.

MOLDINGS BACK

Metal moldings to be used in bathrooms and kitchens are back on the market, according to Practical Builder, Chicago. Special treatment of the molding should insure tight and permanent adherence of metal shell to wood.

NEW TYPE STOKER

The new type of pneumatic spreader stoker, now widely used inindustrial power plants, has improved coal firing by eliminating coal hoppers and bucket conveyors. The fuel is piped overhead from the coal bunker to the boiler.

TIPS ON BATHROOM PLANNING OFFERED

Suggestions for planning economical and efficient bathrooms and powder rooms for new homes are offered by the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

While there are many plans for bathrooms and powder rooms, the most economical are those which back up fixtures in two rooms or compartments, thus permitting the same piping to serve both sets of fixtures, the Bureau points out.

Also economical, because they require less piping and therefore less labor, are bathrooms or powder rooms arranged one above the other. It is also practical in many cases to have the pip for all fixtures on the same It is desirable from the sta point of operating efficiency have the water closet locate near the soil stack as possible

Piping should not be run outside walls unless the pip or the house is well insula Similarly the bath should no placed under a window beca of the disadvantage of draft possible marring of the fin when work is being done on window or drapes.

A growing trend toward cessing of fixtures or placing th in separate compartments is not by the Bureau. Also significant the trend toward providing plen of storage space in bathrooms a powder rooms.

Amazingly light

Would you believe that this NEW 'Budgit' Chain Block weighs only 81 lbs. in two-ton size, 59 lbs. in the one-ton size, and only 48 lbs. in the ¼ and ½-ton capacity? It is true. For a brand new design and the liberal use of alloy steels and stampings have produced these astonishingly low weights.

Would you believe that this 'Budgit' Chain Block lifts easier and faster than other standard spur-geared hoist in the market? This, also, is true. Anti-friction bearings throughout and all working parts enclosed in a grease-filled sealed chamber, make this possible.

It takes much less physical effort to lift weight with the 'Budgit' Chain Block — so the worker likes it.

It is perfectly balanced with or without load — another element of modern, correct design. So is the roller type load chain.

The 'Budgit' Chain Block is equipped with an automatic brake which prevents the load from descending except at the will of the operator.

'Budgit' Chain Blocks are built to lift up to ¾, ½, 1 and 2 tons and prices start at $59.50. Est. Send for Bulletin No. 337.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

IF ANY one had told me, during Philip Veritzen's speech announcing his stepdaughter's betrothal and his toast to the "fairy princess" and her future husband, that I would immediately afterward be eating and enjoying the delicious and exquisitely molded iced dessert which was the climax of the meal, I would have given him the "short and ugly word" vehemently.

For there was such transparent venom against Mary in her father-in-law's words, even though his camouflage was apparently elaborate, that all appetite had fled from me, as well as every emotion save the twin ones of hot championship of Mary, and equally heated anger against her husband's father.

Saved The Situation

But Olga's quick wit, her courage and her resourcefulness had saved the situation She had given Mary a public triumph, had managed to exculpate her own daughter from the implication of trying to flaunt her ring for Mary's humiliation and had completely negated her husband's covert taunt of his daughter-in-law.

But also, she had given him an "out" he did not deserve by assuming that he did not know of the commoner, Georges' great-grandmother, who once had been queen of Trees and had worn the heirloom ruby betrothal ring

And, in climax, with infinite skill, she had disclaimed any yearning for royal status on the part of herself, of Olina, or of Georges, and without mentioning her husband's name had aligned them with him as fellow-Americans

I did not wonder that Olina was looking at her mother adoringly out of eyes still shadowed with what I hoped was shame at the humiliation she had planned for Mary.

I did not wonder, either, at the silence in which the fees were eaten. It seemed to my heated imagination that enough superfluous words already had been spoken

But when Olga "picked us up with her eyes," and we rose from the table and made our way back to the living room, the warmth of the blazing fire and the hot black demitasses of coffee served us by Charles, loosened all tongues

"I am afraid, dear friends," Olga said smiling, "that this is more of a dinner than a luncheon But I already had planned the viands, and I thought perhaps you wouldn't mind"

"Mind!" Dicky declared extravagantly, "It was super-superb And, of course," he added smugly, "it's going to be a mighty good thing for me, keep my wife up on her toes, trying to emulate this feast"

"Don't indulge in any hopes of that kind," I told him tranquilly "I certainly don't want to return you to camp in uniforms that you can't button"

"How delicately you put things, darling!" my husband said, with theatrical bitterness in his voice "Sometimes I'm tempted to trade you off for a new model"

Olga signaled the waiting Charles, and he proffered to each of us in turn a basket of rare fruits, followed with plates of delicately sliced cheese and crackers Then he replenished our demitasses, and Dicky looked with pretended anxiety at Junior and Roderick who had taken full advantage of the good things

"You really have me beaten, boys," he said "Are you really going to eat all those, or are you going to stuff some in your pockets?"

"Dicky!" Olga's voice was a rebuking command

"Yes, ma'am" he said 'Kamerad! Don't shoot! I'm a treed coon I'll come down"

The laughter of the boys washed away their embarrassment, and Olga smiled warmly at them

"You shall have plenty to take back for a snack," she told them "I know boys," and then, at a signaling glance from Dicky, I made an appeal to her.

"Dear Olga," I said, "will you forgive the Grahams if we leave you now? We do not like to telephone Katharine about Mother Graham, but we naturally are a bit anxious about her."

OHIO CHURCH SENDS EGGS TO STARVING

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O., May 4—A plane carrying 55,800 hatching eggs, contributed by Church of the Brethren congregations in Ohio and Indiana, will take off Monday for Warsaw, Poland.

The plane was provided by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, which made arrangements with the Russian government for landing in Warsaw and distribution of the eggs to incubators there.

The eggs were selected carefully to provide high quality White Leghorn and Rhode Island Red chicks.

Ray Petersime, Gettysburg, O., manufacturer and prominent layman in the church of the Brethren, originated the project, and may accompany the eggs.

The project, he said, is designed to help needy Polish families help themselves.

"Besides," he remarked, "a chicken can live on almost anything, and at the same time is a source of both meat and eggs." He added:

"The idea occurred to me after the Church of the Brethren had such a favorable response from people in Poland, France, Belgium and Czechoslovakia, to whom more than 1,500 heifers have been shipped. Perhaps if this egg project is successful, we can arrange to ship day-old chicks."

Teachers Get Jail After Night With Teen - Age Youths

By The Associated Press

BELLINGHAM, Wash., May 4—An all-night party with teen-aged youths led yesterday to a one year jail sentence for two young schoolteachers with a recommendation by Superior Judge Ralph O. Olson that they be banned forever from teaching profession for their part in corrupting the morals of minor boys.

The two Blaine, Wash. teachers —Lois Wenschlag, 20, and Elsie Paulson, 23—pleaded guilty to contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Miss Wenschlag's sentence was suspended on the condition that she never again teach school.

The two were arrested April 23 after an all-night party April 16 attended by two boys, one 13, the other 15, and Prosecutor Frank W. Radley drew from Miss Paulson an admission she had had sexual intercourse with another boy.

Radley told the court five boys visited the teachers at their cottage April 16, three leaving about 2 a. m. He said the boys told him hugging and kissing went on all during the night.

EX-GI CANDIDATE ENDS ALL-OHIO TOUR

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 6—The jeep trek of George L. Mark, who gave himself the political sobriquet of "GI spokesman" when he started running for congress, was a weary end today.

Ex-Private Mark, 37-year-old former barber supply salesman, and his four ex-service companions pulled into Cleveland last night, somewhat "beat up" from 3,200 miles of campaigning through 310 towns in 38 of Ohio's 88 counties.

Mark first came to public attention last December when he appeared as a witness at a congressional hearing on universal military training, tossing such phrases as "bemedaled phonies" and "Pentagon boy scouts" into the record as synonyms for "Army brass hats."

Becoming one of eight candidates for Democratic nomination as congressman at large, Mark opened his jeep tour nearly three weeks ago. He said he could not afford to stop at hotels or eat in restaurants, so he and his managers slept in pup tents and ate out of tin cans. Until Tuesday's primary, Mark will do the rest of his campaigning here in Cleveland, where he and his wife and three children live.

His campaign publicist, Lou Musachio, in a "final bulletin" on the tour said the group pulled into town "with thirty-six cents, two cans of soup and sinking stomachs."

Mark says he wants "legislation to give the GI a decent break."

Sharpe, an employe of the Marion Power Shovel Co., was taken to the company's dispensary where he was treated and released.

ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY

George Hopkins, 24, of 819 Adams street escaped serious injury when his car went out of control, slid 159 feet and struck a tree on East Fairground street at Tyler street Friday at 3 a. m. Hopkins was taken to the hospital with bruises about the face and body. His condition today was given a good. The car was demolished, police said. Hopkins was alone in the car.

YOUTH RALLY PLANS MADE

Festival June 10 to 14 at Garfield Park Arranged at Dinner.

Sponsors of the Marion Youth for Christ movement held a dinner meeting at Hotel Harding Thursday night to discuss plans for a Marion Youth for Christ Giant Youth Festival to be held June 10-14 in Garfield park, and to hear reports of the work of the national and international movements. Dr. C. E. Hershey, director was in charge. A quarter-hour prayer period opened the session.

It was announced that during the festival week delegates are expected from many surrounding communities within a reasonable driving distance of Marion, and that a sound system will be installed to aid in making the program audible to a large crowd. Monday night of that week, a service will be held by members of the Children's Bible hour, a radio broadcast program heard weekly on Saturday morning on a nationwide hookup. The evangelist for the week will be William Piper of Cleveland, Tenn.

Concerning the international Youth for Christ work, it was announced that the national director, Rev. Tory Johnson, and his party will arrive in this country May 6 from a "European invasion" of the Youth for Christ movement. A conference at Winona Lake, Ind., for boys and girls was announced for July 14-21, which a local delegation will attend. Another conference, for Youth for Christ directors from all over the world, will be held at Medicine Lake, Minn., July 22-28, with speakers including Dr. Charles E. Fuller, well-known radio evangelist, and Dr. Harry VanBrook, musician and director of the Youth for Christ movement of Los Angeles, Calif.

Youth for Christ has gone on record internationally as a missionary effort to assist in establishment of the movement in communities in this country as well as abroad, it was announced, and the Marion group has sent gifts to the international organization for that purpose. A report of finances showed that expenses have been taken care of with no difficulty, and that a sum of $24 is on hand to apply on the next rally.

The next monthly Youth for Christ meeting here will be Saturday, May 25, when Carl Nill of Dayton will show a motion picture, "The New Birth." Mrs. Nill, a singer, will present special music, and she and her husband will sing duet numbers. Dr. Hershey announced that the Marion Youth for Christ will soon receive a charter of affiliation with Youth for Christ International.

A new member of the local advisory board is Shelby Abbot. Present at the meeting besides Dr. Hershey and Mr. Abbot were Harry Crowner, Paul Lister, Marion Brown, D. A. Brown, Al Hough, Paul McAllister, Clifford Ward and James Sanderson.

BOY SCOUTS ASSIST WITH CANCER DRIVE

Help Collect Coin Boxes for Final Count.

Marion Boy Scouts were assisting Junior Chamber of Commerce representatives today in gathering in the loose ends of the Junior Chamber's month-long cancer drive.

Scouts were collecting coin boxes from local businesses and industries while Junior Chamber officials began to total the amount received during the drive. The local cancer goal is $25,000.

The campaign will officially close in outlying districts of the county today, where clubs and organizations as well as individuals have been active in promoting the drive.

Junior Chamber Representatives Robert Solinger, Duanne Wiseman and Robert Morrison began this morning to contact the 30 businesses which have not already made their reports on the campaign. As soon as all funds have been collected the money will be divided, with half remaining in Marion county and the remaining portion going to the state and national cancer organizations.

A poem, "Treasures," by C. W. Setterfield of the Three Arts club received honorable mention in the literary contest. Mrs. E. Paul Huffman of Marion is literature chairman of the district.

1,200 in Attendance

Approximately 1,200 delegates and club members attended the two-day session, which had as speakers many outstanding men and women of the state and nation. Attending from Marion were Mrs. W. N. Mrs. Harder, for whom the Margaret G. Harder fellowship is named, presented Miss Norma Balanos of Costa Rica, scholarship student at Ohio State university, who talked on her work and what the opportunity meant to her and the eight other students who have attended Ohio State university as fellowship students. The fellowship was established in 1930 when Mrs. Harder was president of the state organization and Ohio has the distinction of being the first state to set up the fund. Mrs. Weber presided for the district luncheon on Thursday.

RADIO MEN DISAGREE ON FEDERAL CONTROL

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 4—Differences of opinion within the industry over closer federal control of radio broadcasting knifed to the surface well ahead of schedule last night at Ohio State university's 16th institute for education by radio.

Speakers at a symposium billed as dealing with radio's postwar responsibilities charged into a free-for-all discussion of governmental control of radio programs. The subject had been scheduled to appear in a debate Sunday noon.

Center of the quarrel is a recent report by the federal communications commission in which it called for more sustaining time, more local "live" programs, more public service and a minimum of advertising and criticizing the present system.

Nathan Straus, president of New York's Independent station WMCA, declared radio's "record is marred by grave abuses."

"The President of the largest trade organization in the radio world characterized the FCC report as showing a 'lack of faith in the American system of free radio,'" Straus said. "I, for one, am ready to say that this is nonsense x x x and exceedingly dangerous nonsense."

BRADLEY ASKS FOR GI HEALTH PROGRAM

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 4 — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans administrator, told the senate labor committee yesterday any compulsory health insurance legislation should protect veterans' current rights to free medical care and hospitalization.

During Bradley's testimony, Chairman Murray (D-Mont) read a letter from President Truman saying the Wagner-Murray-Dingel bill for a national health program would carry out a large part of the health program he advocates.

Three Republican senators, however, announced Thursday night they would introduce a counter proposal, to allot $220,000,000 yearly to the states to improve medical and dental care.

Bradley noted that the bill under consideration does not specify means of finance. He said, however, that the term "prepaid personal health service benefits" indicates that contributions are anticipated from employed persons.

"This," he said, "would require the veteran to contribute toward a benefit to which he is already entitled, without charge, under existing law, in that he is entitled without cost to himself to hospital or out-patient treatment of service connected disability and to hospital treatment of non-service connected disability when bed is available."

UNIVERSAL COOLER BUILDING APPROVED

Warehouse To Be Built at Site of Main Plant.

Approval of construction of an $18,000 storage warehouse by the Universal Cooler plant was announced today in Columbus by the Civilian Production Administration. A $15,000 student union building for Ohio Wesleyan university in Delaware was also approved.

Foundation for the warehouse, according to Universal Cooler officials here, has already been laid and construction will be started within a few days. It will be completed within 45 days. The work is being done by the Bidaud Construction Co. under direction of Universal Cooler engineers.

The building is described as a 100 by 200 feet concrete block warehouse. It will be situated at the west end of the main plant and will be used for storage of refrigerator parts. A conveyor system will be established from the new warehouse into the production area in the main plant, officials of the company said today. Much of the conveyor system has already been built, it was said.

NAM HEAD CHARGES COERCION BY UNIONS

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE, May 4—The president of the National Association of Manufacturers, Robert R. Wason, declared here Friday night that since the end of the war "the union concept of collective bargaining has become one of 'collective coercion,' with the government actively participating with labor against industry."

"The labor unions, largely free of any legal restraint, have developed economic dictators to control the daily lives of the people," he said in an address to Pacific northwest business leaders and industrialists.

Urging that congress "restate" the law to protect the people from "labor dictators," Wason declared:

"Philip Murray decides when we can have steel.

"Walter Reuther holds up our automobiles.

"Caesar Petrillo says when we shall have music.

"John Lewis stops the production of coal, denies fuel to homes and threatens to tie up all industry. He puts himself above the nation. He seeks to levy a tax on bituminous coal that will amount to $54,000,000; but the industry isn't making over $50,000,000 after taxes."

JAP CANDIDATE DISQUALIFIED

MacArthur Declares Liberal Party President Ineligible for Premiership.

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, April 4—General MacArthur today tumbled down Japan's political house of cards by disqualifying Ichizo Hatoyama from public office, forced the politicians to renew their fumbling efforts to form a new cabinet—and gave the government a verbal spanking for dereliction of duty.

Mac Arthur obviously was tired of the fruitless, two-week political deadlock which was heading toward the naming of Hatoyama as premier.

The Supreme Commander's headquarters issued a statement which branded the president of Japan's dominant liberal party as "a tool of ultra-nationalist interests;" said Hatoyama once publikely lauded the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor as a "great victory," extensively cited his pre-war public record as one stifling all opposition to the rise of the military clique; and bluntly noted that action by headquarters was necessary because of government reluctance to take the initiative.

FRENCH VOTE SUNDAY

By The Associated Press

PARIS, May 4 — The French people will vote tomorrow on acceptance or rejection of a proposed new constitution which would centralize the power of government in a one-house legislature of 660 members.

45 Canadian Farmers To Visit Morrow Co.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, May 4—Approximately 45 farmers from Waterloo county in Ontario, Canada, are planning to visit farms in Morrow county and the Headwaters Soil Conservation District on the afternoon of June 4, it was announced this week by H. E. Hecker, soil conservationist of the Headwaters district.

Tentative plans call for visits at the Scott Belt farm in Canaan township and at the Morrow county home farm. Another Morrow county farm may be added to the list.

The tour will be in charge of Frank Morwick, professor of soils at the University of Ontario and will also include visits to the Louis Brownfield farm in Richland county and the Cosmos Blubaugh farm in Knox county.

Approximately 30 members of the group will be members of the county council, and the remaining 15 will be leading farmers of the community.

Security Pay Goes To 1,454

Beneficiaries in Four Counties Draw $25,356 Monthly, Office Here Reports.

Figures reported today by Gerhard L. Schlueter, manager of the Marion office of the social security board, show that a total of $25,356 20 is being paid monthly in insurance benefits to 1,454 people in the four counties of this area by the federal system of old-age and survivors insurance. These figures are for April 1, 1946, as disclosed in a report for the March quarter of this year, and show an increase of approximately 12½ per cent over the benefit payments made in the previous quarter.

Of these social security beneficiaries, 42 per cent are retired workers, age 65 or more, who numbered 614 on March 31, 1946, with payments totaling $13,739 98 a month. The remainder includes wives—over 65—of retired workers, widows over 65 of insured workers who have died, widows (of any age) with children under 18, these children, and in some cases parents of deceased workers.

The following figures show the number of persons in each group who are receiving social security benefits in the Marion area, and the total of the monthly payments:

Type of Beneficiary	Total Number	Monthly Payments
Retired workers	614	$13,739 98
Wives over 65	235	2,703 99
Widows over 65	92	1,895 31
Widows with children	129	2,827 19
Children	371	4,433 92
Aged dependent parents	3	45 81
Total for Area		$25,356 20

In addition to these monthly insurance payments, a total of $4,171 32 was paid during the quarter in lump-sum benefits.

With the announcement of these figures, Mr Schlueter pointed out that it is advisable for workers of 65 or more to call at the social security board office in the Cummin Memorial building at Center and State streets for information, whether or not they are still working. Even if a worker is not planning to retire, he added, it may be to his advantage to file an application for social security benefits under a procedure that has been arranged to prevent possible loss of benefit payments.

Capitalism Needs No Apology

ONE of our country's best-informed businessmen, Eric A. Johnston, gave a valedictory address Thursday night to sum up what he has learned as president of United States Chamber of Commerce during the last four years.

Mr. Johnston is leaving the presidency of America's largest organization of businessmen to become president of Motion Picture Producers-Distributors of America, succeeding Will H. Hays. In his farewell address to the Chamber of Commerce he talked about capitalism and its prospects in the next decade. In view of his position, the character of his audience and the circumstances of his remarks, Mr. Johnston made possibly the most important speech of the year.

He told his listeners—and this capitalist nation—that American business must develop a new form of capitalism or face the same consequences which have displaced capitalism in other nations.

He proposed a new dimension for democratic capitalism—a dimension of expanding promise. After four years of continuous study of economic systems throughout the world, Mr. Johnston still sees capitalism—a new kind of capitalism—as man's best hope. But capitalism cannot stand still. It cannot look backward. It must adapt itself to new conditions, refire men's imaginations, make itself dynamic.

Capitalism needs no apology for what it has done . . . "other systems promise their people the good things of life . . . We've got them. Other systems strive to perpetuate themselves on promises. We pitch our standard on performance."

For the future, then, capitalism needs to have, first of all, an accurate definition of its aims. Mr. Johnston proposes this one:

"Capitalism is a competitive economic system designed for the enrichment of the many and not to make a few men rich."

With its purpose thus defined it needs next to implement purpose with practice. "The old capitalism, despite its sins," says Mr. Johnston, "built a great United States. The new capitalism can build a great united people . . . only a united people can make progressive, cooperative capitalism be real in fact as well as in theory."

IN BRIEF, a system that has given Americans more benefits than people ever gained from any other economic system needs only to be adapted to modern circumstances to continue to give them more benefits than they stand to gain from any other system.

"We must quit looking at the status quo as a finishing line and learn to treat it as a starting line for the new capitalism now emerging," declares Mr. Johnston. "Under the old or standpat conception of capitalism, people seem merely the inert tools of the system. Under the new, or progressive conception, the system is a tool in the hands of the people. It is to be used, but not abused, for the general welfare and the good of all."

The rest of Mr. Johnston's address consisted, significantly, of proposals so well-known, so widely-discussed that none of them is novel as either theory or practice. They are equitable regulation, minimum wages, profit-sharing, anti-monopoly restrictions, annual wages—all adding up to more people owning and using more things.

Mr. Johnston believes the goal of the new capitalism should be to make every man a capitalist. "Our destiny," he told his businessman audience, "is to create the new capitalism . . . We in business must liberalize or face the threat of economic liquidation. The law of life applies: adapt or die . . . America created a new form of government. America created a new form of mass production. America can create a new capitalism."

We can have in America whatever we want to have. Americans always have made their own rules. We have with us now skeptics telling us that democratic capitalism is through, finished, obsolete and waiting for a revolution to topple it over. They offer promises as a substitute.

Fortunately, we also have with us the Eric Johnstons, rejecting the credo of revolution and promises, all of which call for one or another brand of despotism with a resulting loss of liberty. The Johnstons offer the continued advantages of a system which, with all its faults in the past, has given the United States the highest living standard ever attained.

America will take the Johnstons.

Europe Awaits Another War

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Lippmann Reports Leaders See Conflict Coming.

BEFORE I attempt to report what I learned in Europe, I should explain certain things by way of introduction. The first is that I did not have the time, nor had I the qualifications, to investigate at first hand the conditions of life and the political attitudes of the great masses of the people. As to that I have in addition to the casual impressions of a tourist, only some written and some oral reports of men whose main business it is to investigate and report.

But I did talk at length with a fair number of responsible and representative men, and in order that they might speak as frankly as they dared or wished, I assured each of them that not only what he said but the fact that I had seen him would be off the record.

The most important conclusion I have to report is, I am sure, indisputable. It is that all European governments, all parties, and all leading men are acting as if there would be another world war. There are some who dread it, some who want it, some who think it inevitable, some who think it can be averted.

But with no exceptions among those who really form policy in Europe—leaving aside the Americans, who are in a special and curious position—the ultimate and determining calculation is that there may be another war, and that they must act as if there were going to be another war.

No Move Toward Peace

As a result there is not only no peace: The business of making peace has not even begun. If anyone thinks this is a recklessly exaggerated statement, let him consider this most extraordinary fact. Since last September the Allies have been preparing for what they call a peace conference, which will be held in Paris when and if the four ministers reach their conclusions. It will then be more than 12 months since Germany was defeated, and yet the subject of Germany is not even on the agenda of the peace conference.

M. Bidault, for the French, has been struggling for the bare right to discuss one element of a German settlement. Mr. Byrnes, by proposing an Austrian treaty, has just touched delicately the fringes of the German problem, and in his four-power disarmament pact, he has suggested that he too has begun to believe that the Allies ought not to forget that it is the principal business of a peace conference to settle the war with the chief enemy state.

The fact that M. Bidault and Mr. Byrnes are not yet sure they can get to a discussion of Germany is, I submit, objective proof that whatever it may be that the Allies are doing, they are not making peace.

If we understand why this so-called peace conference is not dealing with Germany, we shall come close to the heart of the matter. This is dangerous and treacherous ground but if Americans are to play a useful part in Europe, they must explore it.

In 1942 the Axis powers controlled all of Europe and eastern Asia. They were at Stalingrad, El Alamein, the gates of India, and within striking distance of Alaska, Hawaii and Australia. The defeat of the Axis powers opened up these vast regions of the globe, and into them the victorious Allies advanced until they met.

They met in the middle of Germany, in the middle of Austria, on the Italian and the Greek frontiers, in Korea and in China. When they met, they were in physical possession of the Axis empires: the Americans had most of the former Japanese empire, the British had the Italian empire, and the Russians had the Nazi empire of eastern Europe.

Trouble Among Axis Heirs

Since Germany and Japan were for the time being powerless, the Allies had suddenly to deal with one another as the heirs of the Axis rather than with the Axis itself. The immediate question was not what to do about the chief enemy states but what to do about these newly occupied empires. That is what we have been quarreling about not only since the London conference of last September, or even since Yalta, but indeed since the great and never fully reported controversy between Stalin and Churchill over the strategical plan of the war.

The essence of that controversy was how the war was to be fought by the Anglo-Americans—whether directly against Germany in western Europe or through "the soft underbelly" in the Mediterranean.

The controversy was in the last analysis political: it was whether, even though it meant a longer war, the British and Americans would at the end be in physical possession of Vienna, Budapest, and the whole Balkan Peninsula. As we know, the issue was decided, with some compromise, against Mr. Churchill by President Roosevelt and our general staff.

Our men believed that their decision ended the war sooner and at less cost. But it ended it with the Russians, rather than the British and Americans, in all the capitals of eastern Europe, on the shores of the Adriatic, and on the frontier of Greece.

The crucial issues which divide the Allies arise from this situation: They are whether the Russians are to stay in or are to evacuate the Danube Valley and the Balkans, and whether the British can maintain their precarious monopoly in the Mediterranean and the Middle East if the Russians do not go back. For everyone is certain, and the proof is clear, that if the Russians do not recede, they will advance still further. No one, least of all the Russians themselves, believes that the political frontier between them and the British can be stabilized where it is now.

Germany Is Pawn

This is the reason why every statesman in Europe has it in the back of his mind as his ultimate controlling assumption that he must act as if there were going to be a war between Britain and Russia, which will involve all the other nations. The most optimistic say they hope that by a show of force the Russians will be halted and will then begin to recede.

But no one is optimist enough to think that the Russians can be talked into retiring to their own boundaries, leaving Britain the dominant power of the Mediterranean and the Middle East, the Americans dominant throughout the Pacific and on the mainland of Eastern Asia, and central and eastern Europe in the hands of native politicians who look to London and to Washington for guidance and support.

We can now understand why Germany is not on the agenda of the peace conference. It is because—to state the blunt truth—the German problem as seen in Moscow and in London, is, fundamentally, whether in the event of war the Germans are to be used by the Russians or by the western powers. This is a terrible fact. But it is the fact, and, if anything is to be done about it, the United States will have to do it.

I believe that much can be done

Not Even for Third Offenders

In Hyattsville, Maryland, county authorities have ordered the jailer to quit serving hot dogs for breakfast.

This is the greatest single step toward penal reform since abolition of stocks and pillory.

Hot dogs for breakfast? There is no crime to fit this punishment.

Hot dogs for breakfast? Is there no limit to man's inhumanity to man?

Hot dogs for breakfast? Compared to that, the treatment which Robert Elliott (I-am-a-fugitive-from-a-Georgia - chain - gang) Burns received was the type of southern hospitality of which Senator Claghorn brags.

The shock of waking up in the calaboose after an evening of over-indulgence is bad enough at best. But then to be confronted with frankfurters is adding misery to misdemeanor.

No more hot dogs for breakfast!! Move over, civilization, and make room for Hyattsville.

Peron's War Of Nerves

By RAYMOND MOLEY

REPORTS from Argentina make it clear that the victorious Peron forces are feeling their oats. The foreign minister, in commenting on our state department's statement of policy, was not friendly. They smart over the blue book and Assistant Secretary Spruille Braden's outspoken views has been deeply felt. Apparently, when you strike at a Fascist or semi - Fascist government, you must not let the blow be deflected. And in this case, the blow was parried by a fairly free election, in which the voters of Argentina repudiated the official views of the United States.

The most serious manifestation of the Peron diplomacy is an increasing war of nerves against Uruguay. Economic pressure against Argentina's small neighbor has been under way for three months. Other means of irritation have been resorted to. In its externals, the conduct of Argentina resembles the aggressive diplomacy of pre-war Italy and Germany. Even the terrific barrage of radio criticism against the government of Uruguay resembles the tirades that Fascist governments used to carry on against neighbors which were trying to resist aggression. There is also the business of calling the leader of the totalitarian party in Uruguay to Argentina, presumably to build party solidarity across national lines.

Peron Is Resourceful

Peron is a resourceful leader. But he may overreach himself in the flush of his victory. That is the hope of moderates in Argentina and elsewhere in South America.

There is no question about the effect of the state department's defeat in the Peron case. The prestige of the United States in Latin America has suffered a marked decline since the end of the war. Our huge war purchases there encouraged over-production, and now the reaction is setting in. There is already some disagreement over our war-made commitments. The bounteous way by which we won good will during the war will not win permanent influence. And to top it all, we face the old foreign trade problem of being an exporter of many of the commodities which South America wants to sell. Once more, Europe, including Russia, is able to buy and sell in South America in a way not permitted by the nature of our imports and exports. Peron has already been approached by Soviet emissaries eager to establish important diplomatic and trade relations.

The bright spot in recent U. S.-Argentina relations has been the appointment of George Messersmith as our ambassador. In my observation of American ambassadors and ministers over a period of years, two men stood head and shoulders over the others—Messersmith and Jefferson Caffery. There will be little in the rapidly moving politics of Argentina and her neighbors which will escape our ambassador. And he can re-establish American prestige, if anyone can.

But the turn of events under Peron is not a happy one. It is no longer a question of Nazi agents operating in a friendly Argentina. It is an Argentina with an elected government that is beginning to use National Socialist methods on its own.

LET'S GET RID OF THAT WILD LOOK

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Monday, May 4, 1936.

Americans in Addis Ababa, capital of the shattered kingdom of Ethiopia, fought for their lives against an attack by native marauders as Italian troops approached the city's gates. The American minister reported to the state department that two native servants in the American legation had been seriously wounded and appealed for British assistance in holding the U. S. legation against the intruders.

Delegates to the quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in session at Columbus approved its unification with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South and the Methodist Protestant church.

Chester C. Roberts was elected president and general manager of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. at a meeting of the board of directors in New York City. He also was elected president of the Ohio Electric Power Co. and the Reserve Power and Light Co.

William N. Neff of Martel was reelected a member of the county board of health for a five-year term.

Members of the All Arts club of Prospect closed the season with a dinner and program at Ringer's Inn.

Wilbur Osborn, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osborn of 257 West Pleasant street, suffered a fractured right elbow in a fall from a tree.

Mrs. Frank Frallch of Blaine avenue, Mrs. O. V. Roby of South Vine street, Mrs. Harry S. Elliott of South State street and Mrs. Elizabeth Eisele of near Agosta returned from Athens where they attended the annual week-end program honoring mothers of students at Ohio university.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Tuesday, May 4, 1926.

A hundred thousand special deputies were called into service in Great Britain as a general strike demoralized industry and brought the nation to the verge of civil war.

Ground was officially broken for the Harding Memorial in an afternoon ceremony in which members of the executive committee of the Harding Memorial association and a group of Marion business men participated.

Harry E. High of Dix avenue, superintendent of construction at the Huber Mfg. Co. plant, resigned his position after 24 years' service with the company to accept a place as special roller salesman with the Galion Iron Works & Mfg. Co.

The board of education employed 173 teachers for the following school year. This action followed the board's confirmation of Supt. Jesse H. Mason's reemployment for a five-year period.

Committees and officials were appointed for Marion's annual Memorial day observance. Col. G. B. Christian was elected president of the day and G. V. Paschall vice president and grand marshal. Rev. B. L. George, pastor of Epworth M. E. church, was selected to give the address.

The Answer Is A Firm "No"

American Potters Deny Japs Need Help.

IN 600 blistering words that added up to a firm "No," Joseph M. Wells of East Liverpool, O., chairman of the labor committee of United States Potters Association, recently replied to a U. S. State Department request for trained ceramists to show the Japanese how to make better pottery.

The State Department official who made the request apparently never heard of the virile animosity created in the hearts of American potters by a prewar international trade fumble that found Japan furnishing more than 80 per cent of all china dinnerware used in the United States, England 15 per cent and the United States the rest—while American potters marked time on WPA jobs.

This is partly understandable. The request which reached Mr. Well over the signature of T. M. Brewer, recruitment officer, special recruitment section, division of departmental personnel U. S. State Department, Washington, D. C., U. S. A., was addressed to Homer Laughlin, American Domestic Pottery Manufacturing Co. Mr. Laughlin has been dead about 35 years. The State Department seems to have a gap in its records.

Mr. Wells, secretary-treasurer and general manager of the pottery that bears his name, replied in the late Mr. Laughlin's place, sending his message direct to Secretary of State Byrnes. The incident was reported in the Wall Street Journal.

"If the State Department must spend money on ceramic technicians," he said, "would it not be the most ordinary kind of common sense to pay them to work with the American potters in an effort to produce china that could compete in price with the imports? But I presume it would be pure isolationism to suggest that the State Department should show some remote interest in job opportunities for the people who supply the funds to carry on its activities."

There was much more in the same vein.

"Now please don't insult my intelligence," warned Mr. Wells, "by dragging out the old and absurd bromide that we must buy their competitive merchandise so that our workmen will have employment in making the things they will buy from us in return."

Then he asks: "Just what answer can there be to our question: 'Why does our government spend our money to make jobs for the members of this despicable race which will mean that our men who fought and suffered to defeat them will be walking the streets jobless?"

Mr. Wells declared that before the war Japanese potters made and sold in America "just about as fine china as any made here and at less than one-half the American cost of production. At that time, according to Tariff Commission reports, Japan was shipping more than 80 per cent of all china dinnerware used in the United States. England furnished about 15 per cent, and of the balance only 3 per cent was produced in American factories."

In brief, Mr. Wells doubts that American ceramists could teach anything to Japanese potters. He doubts that if they could it would be sensible to teach trade secrets to a country whose labor costs are so absurdly low that workmen will toil all week on less than a day's wages in the United States. He doubts that the United States State Department knows what it is doing, or if it does that it has comprehended the implications of its request. As far as he and his association are concerned, the department will get no help for Japanese potters from the potters of the United States.

So They Say—

Dr. Stoyan Gavilovitch, chairman of the United Nations Headquarters Committee—"The Security Council, which represents the main political body of the new world organization, has already dealt with a number of important disputes. In the execution of this task, it has clearly manifested the great value of Frank and open discussion on problems of general international significance."

Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, noted American flier — "Even today when we think of aviation as being well advanced, the forces of wind, rain snow and fog, singly or combined, not only can threaten the safe progress of an aircraft in flight, but also keep aircraft earthbound."

Daily Bible Thought

This faith takes away the sting of death for ourselves and for our loved ones: "For we know that if the earthly house of this tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."—II Cor. 5:1.

Cold Winters Ahead

COOLER weather with old-fashioned winters like grandpop used to know are returning to the United States weather bureau says. Weather trends come in 50 year cycles, it explains, and for the past half century we have been riding away from the winters in which folks had to dig through the snowdrifts to locate clothespoles

Now will come a slow move back to the day when grandpop often walked into the second story of the old farm right from the snow level.

"And a good thing it will be to toughen up the citizenry," declared Elmer Twitchell today. "We've been getting soft in sissy-like ways when the folks thought a blizzard was an snowfall that kept a limousine down to 40 miles an hour in open country. 'Blizzard Sweeps City' has been the routine headline every time a snowdrift got half way up a milk bottle on the windward porch.

"There are millions of Americans who have never been stuck in a snowdrift overnight, fought their way home at telegraph pole level, spent a weekend digging a path to the coalbin or put in 24 hours slapping hot towels around the frozen plumbing.

"What's become of the old fashioned fella who had three fingers missing from the deep freezes" Where's the native once common in every community who got around on a wooden leg most of his life because of exposure to icepack in his own backyard? Where are the countless folks who went around all their lives with tender ears and noses because of frostbite in their early days"

"When I was a boy," he continued, "you had to face the house southward or you'd get four or five loads of snow in the bedroom right through a door crack. It was nothing to have the fire freeze up over night. Once every week they had to get a snowplow to dig me out of bed . . . and I slept in the attic!

"Every spring when things thawed out two or three dozen neighbors and their livestock, missing since early autumn, would be found frozen stiff in the receding snows. My old man gave up chickens and went in for Canadian geese one winter, and a neighbor who had been raising dairy cattle switched to polar bears.

"Big cities get our super plows to fight a snowstorm that oldtimers would tackle with a whiskbroom and without bothering to put on anything but a pair of pants and an open shirt.

"Let the old-fashioned winters come back for the good of the race!" he concluded. "There will be less squawkin' about minor inconveniences."

Wanna bet?

Feltman's famous restaurant at Coney Island, in existence for 72 years and known to millions, is changing hands. We link the old place up with our first visit to the big city. How it dazzled us with its city-block dimensions. Dozen separate restaurants and its several bars. And how we thought we were splurging when we went there for a full course dinner for $1.25. With beer 5 cents a schooner! And cocktails 15 for a quarter!

Edward McGrady, a radio official, is now conferring with John L. Lewis in an effort to settle the coal strike. We presume his first question was, 'Do you ever listen to the U.S.A. program?"

A Big Vacation Year

By TRUMAN TWILL

Well, he muses, this is going to be the jackpot year for vacations all right, with all the vacationers back on their old schedules and plenty of gasoline and tires and where does she want to go?

What is he mumbling about, she inquires looking up from the run she is fixing in her last pair of rayons and if he has anything to say please speak up unless it is confidential. What did he say?

He said it was going to be a big year for vacations and where does she want to go and if anything could be clearer than that he wouldn't know what it could be. Why doesn't she pay attention?

She heard him all right the first time, she says, but she couldn't be sure because the last time he mentioned vacations he couldn't think of anything but inflation, the condition of the tires and the probability the car would break down three miles beyond the city limits. What is biting him?

He says he supposes it's the vacation bug that is biting him, the same one that always bites him as soon as the weather turns warm and he begins to think about getting in the old bus and rolling up hill and down dale, a different place to stay each night, not having to go to work, fishing on quiet lakes and coming home sunburned and dead-broke. That is what is bugging him and is there anything wrong with that?

There is nothing wrong with that, she says, except a few little details such as he has mentioned before—expenses, the condition of the automobile, finding places to stay and so on. Why must he always be at one extreme or the other, either talking as though anything was possible, or as though nothing was possible?

He says it is because when he thinks of what is impossible he cannot think of anything else, so it is more convenient to think of what is possible separately from what is impossible. How would she like to fly to Europe in an airplane? What would she think of flying to South America in an airplane? Or maybe the Hawaiian islands?

She would love it, she says, and will expect him to get busy on arrangements without waiting another day. Also, instead of making it quickie, he should arrange to stay a couple of months, which would make it worthwhile. And in the meantime, if it's all right with him, she will drop a line to her cousin in Michigan, angle for an invitation to drop in there for a few days to pay a return visit for the one the cousin paid before the war. She will do this just to be on the safe side in case the airplane expedition falls through. Will he be offended?

He says no, he will not be offended, and will try to find a pair of new tires he can afford and also to get the car in shape, though he doubts if it can be done. He also doubts if he can get away for more than four days at the most. And meanwhile, he asks, why doesn't she get some new stockings before they go to Michigan?

IT WAS FUTILE, INDEED.

The modern woman is lowering her brows to their natural position. She finally learned that the surprised-look effect of raised eyebrows didn't fool anyone, as everybody knows nothing can surprise the modern woman.—Bridgeport Post.

Christianity A Joyous Religion

A Sermonette

By REV. CLAIRE T. CRENSHAW

Rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

THERE are two notes which predominate in the Christian religion; deep sorrow and deep joy. Of the two, joy is the most important, and the end toward which Christians of all ages have attempted to attain. Sorrow is there—deep, bitter, and keen—but out of the sorrow comes the joy and happiness. Through Him who hast overcome the world comes peace and blessing.

For example, observe the scriptural note for the great Feast Days of the Church Year: Christmas, "Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy." Easter, "This is the Day which the Lord hath made, we will rejoice and be glad in it." The psalms, which we read at most services of worship are composed around one theme: The glory and praise of God, the joy and happiness of those who live close to God.

Church worship should be an offering of ourselves to God in deep happiness. We are happy that we are able to come. We are happy that God has, Himself, made the sacrifice for us. He has endured the sorrow and pain of the Cross in order that our sins might be forgiven. We are happy to be able to meet with the brethren in communion with our common father.

The Christian life should abound in happiness. We are followers of Christ. He lived a joyous life. Too much have we seen Him pictured as a "man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." We must remember that He was a young man, full of life and energy. He picked a group of like-minded men to be His disciples. And they were criticized by the pillars of the Church of that day for having too much fun. "He was a friend of Publicans and sinners, a winebibber and a drunkard." He enjoyed the company of the poor and lowly; the prostitute and the sinner. He did not seem to spend tpo much time with "respectable" people. He enjoyed life.

Our Lord had a definite sense of humor. He revealed God as one who willed to infect men with gaiety. He was supremely human. He joined in weddings and festivals and dinner parties. His first miracle was the changing of water to wine in order that the fun of the marriage feast might not lag. He loved to see children at play, and used their games as illustrations of His teachings. Can you imagine a man full of sorrows, with a long face showing that he was carrying the weight of the world on his shoulders, taking time out to play with children?

Frequently He resorted to humor and irony in His teachings. There is more than a touch of fun in many things that He said. The Parable of the Unjust Steward is full of difficulties as a piece of straight – forward teaching. Actually He was only making fun of those who placed their full trust in material advantages. See the humor of the incongrous picture of feeding pearls to swine. Think of the caraciture of the dignified Church leader trying to gulp a camel down his throat, or of that other one carefully examining his friends eye to see the speck while a log was sticking out of his own. He would have made a marvelous cartoonist. His hearers must have chuckled at His devastating word-pictures, for there is nothing so silly as those who think themselves great, or important, or super-dignified. Our funniest jokes today are still the ones which poke fun at this type of human being.

Yes, our Lord was a young man filled with the joy of life, He was healthy mentally and emotionally. He was chock-full of the exuberance of living each day to its fullest. He enjoyed good fun and happy companionship. Those who were miserably unhappy inside could not tolerate the sight of one in whom God's joy shone so brightly, who smiled into their faces as they reviled Him.

Can not our lives also be "like a wedding?" Cannot we too find in Him something of the joy and happiness which will bring men to His Kingdom? One of the worst advertisements for Christianity today in the eyes of the young and serious are the long faces of the pious. Too many of our so-called religious people have no real joy in their lives. Too many of us are so busy judging other people, looking for the specks in the eyes of others, reforming the habits of those with whom we do not agree, that we have no time to make an inventory of our own lives and find that the joy and happiness that we want to bring to others, through Christ, are not present in our own lives. We take unimportant things too seriously. We are so busy trying to stop people from drinking, and smoking, and playing cards, and dancing and having fun in general, that we lose the light of our calling to fight the more important and more deadly sins of pride and fear and injustice and hatred and sloth.

Christianity is a religion of deep joy. Christ was a happy man, for He was constantly doing the will of God. Let us find some of this happiness; let us make our lives to shine with the beauty of holiness, and draw all men to their joyful Saviour, and their happy Redeemer, Jesus Christ.

THE community in general is invited to join with clubs in the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs in the observance of community fine arts day Tuesday at the Federation Home at 1126 East Center street. The weekend will find club women and others interested in the various exhibits, collecting displays for the event which is to be held in the afternoon and evening. Judging in the competitive displays will be done in the morning and guests will have an opportunity to know the winners.

A post war atmosphere will be provided with the displays of the many new articles and gadgets which have come on the market in the last few months, and of special interest will be the men's hobby displays which promises to be varied and contain many valuable articles A special section is being devoted to a display of articles sent and brought from foreign countries by men of the armed forces, Red Cross workers and others who served overseas.

The art display will include the work of artists now living here or who have lived in Marion These will include work done by John Rawlings, artist photographer of New York City, Harold L. Zachman of Chicago, Mrs Henry R. Schaffner of Canton, Mrs Grace Rankin of Akron and Richard Johnson of Dayton.

Anyone having original work or the work of former residents, which has not been entered in fine arts day displays in other years, is asked to bring it to the Federation Home by Monday, Mrs L. D Hamilton, chairman, announces

Mr. Rawlings' prints, about ninety in all, arrived earlier this week and have been hung in the home They include for the most part fashion and cosmetics, and do not represent an o-er-all picture of his field of work Mr. Rawlings, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs Ralph Rawlings of 364 East Church street, has his own studio in New York and also is associated with Vogue as a fashion photographer.

As in former years there will be a scrapbook display, the announcement of winners in the literary contest, the judging of table arrangements plus the many new ideas developed by Mrs William Kimball, general chairman, and her committees

Display In Garage

In the garage will be a 'Design for Living' display furnished by manufacturers of modern conveniences, and a check shows that many surprises are in store for visitors to this particular exhibit. Not to be overlooked is the bazaar where hand made articles, foods, canned fruits and vegetables, contributed by the clubwomen will be on sale.

Music throughout the afternoon and evening will provide a setting for the day. An adult ensemble of piano and strings will be heard in the afternoon and in the evening there will be piano and woodwinds Of interest will be the display of original manuscripts by local composers Refreshments will be served throughout the afternoon and evening

Doors will be open to the public at 1 p m. and the festival will continue until 9:30 o'clock. Articles to be displayed may be taken to the home today, Sunday and Monday. Reds Say U. S. Is Seeking Way To Abandon Europe

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Paris correspondent of Tass, Russian official news agency in analyzing American Secretary Byrnes recent proposal for a four power pact, reaches the conclusion that it looks as if this "signifies preparations to reject the fundamental obligations undertaken by the Allies regarding Germany—namely the long occupation of Germany with the aim of actually destroying the roots and base of German militarism

Well, this just goes to prove that folks who are looking at an object from different angles are likely to register different impressions American observers generally haven't seen this move the way the Tass representative does On the contrary it has been taken as a striking gesture of assurance that Uncle Sam does intend to see the thing through and doesn't intend to withdraw into isolation

DewittMackenzie

What Secretary Byrnes has proposed to the conference of foreign ministers in Paris is a four-power agreement (Russia Britain France and America) for the supervision of Germany for at least 25 years after the present occupation This would be calculated to insure that German forces are completely disbanded that the gestapo and like organizations are destroyed and that there is no manufacture of military materiel The treaty could be renewed for another twenty-five years

Molotov Disagrees

British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Bidault supported Mr Byrnes move to have the treaty inserted in the conference agenda Russian Foreign Minister Molotov demurred—and there the matter stands

So America definitely intends to carry on with the job However there is a decided difference of opinion between the Russians on the one hand, and the western allies on the other, as to how many troops it is necessary to maintain in Germany in order to complete the program of reform and rehabilitation The Russians are maintaining forces which are vastly superior numerically to those of America Britain and France The latter three feel that the maintenance of big armies no longer is necessary for security and that it not only creates a burden for the Allies but places a great and unnecessary economic strain on the conquered people

Certainly it is the consensus of observers who have studied the situation on the ground in Germany—as has your correspondent—that a lengthy military occupation is necessary As I reported during my recent tour of the occupied areas, while the Germans are beaten physically they aren't licked mentally It's going to take long years to knock the militarism out of them and educate them in the ways of peace and true democracy.

Big Army Unnecessary

But it is equally true that while treable allied military forces must be kept in Germany, a great army most certainly isn't necessary There are many Germans who would rise up against the Allies today if they could—and I myself have seen the hatred in their eyes—but they just haven't the physical strength to get far with rebellion The Reich is so thoroughly torn to pieces that even if it were given a free hand now it would be donkey's years before it could amass the strength for another war

There is no doubt that the Allies must have in Germany sufficient troops to be certain of maintaining order.

However, it seems to me—and I believe this to be of the highest importance—that the long-drawn-out maintenance of powerful standing armies by the four allies in Europe must inevitably create the impression that they are armed, not against conquered Germany but against each other Such an impression would be terribly dangerous to peace the bonds now, backers of the program point to the present low interest rates on school bond issues . How long the present rate favorable to sellers, remains no one can say, but it is expected that the proposed issue can be sold at a rate of one per cent or less Over a period of years this will represent a considerable saving to taxpayers.

There is no intention on the part of proponents of the plan to attempt to rush it through to completion under present unfavorable building conditions Neither do they favor going into the building supply market to compete for materials with projects intended to provide housing facilities for veterans

Completion of the program is considered to be from three to seven years away

Should Be Prepared

But the sponsors of the program point to the advantage of having the money ready to go ahead when times are favorable They also see the opportunity to provide a backlog of work in Marion when the rosy years have passed

Aside from the advantages of citywide improvements to the school buildings the city will fill two long-felt needs—an adequate gymnasium for high school basketball and a public auditorium

Both are included in plans for the new junior-senior high school on the athletic field site The proposed auditorium will have a seating capacity of about 2 000 adequate for all school functions as well as public meetings and other entertainments

The gymnasium will have a seating capacity up to 4 000 to provide amply for crowds at high school basketball games

North Area Needs Supplied

The new junior high school on North State street will be comparable to the Edison Junior High in size and appearance It will fill a long-felt need for a junior high school in the north section of the city

The north section also will be benefitted by extensive remodeling of Silver and Oak street grade schools Plans call for modernizing all facilities in the two buildings and making them fire proof

What is considered one of the important changes in the school program after the defeat of the bond issue last fall is the plan to retain Harding High school as a part of the school system

It is proposed to convert the building into a vocational division of the high school and also to remodel a portion of it into a medium sized downtown auditorium

In Step with Times

An enlarged vocational program will keep Marion in pace with current trend toward specialized training for high school pupils

While vocational pupils will take their specialized training at the present Harding building they will remain a part of the senior high school and will pursue their other studies in the new building In this manner they will remain an integral part of the high school population and will have all the advantages of the new school

Backers of the plan say that at no time in recent years has Marion been in so good a position to launch a new school building program The present tax rate of $16 on each $1000 of property is the lowest in 25 years or more

The tax rate has shown a steady decline in the last 15 years and now is more than $10 a thousand lower than the peak for the last 25 years

Even with the added rate from the proposed bond issue the tax rate will be no greater than the average for the last 10 years

MRS. G. M. EDLER OF GALION AND HER BUTTON MAP

Snow White and the Dwarf, Feeding Bird (a very rare button), Dionysos, Cleopatra, Aurora (Goddess of Dawn), Statue of Liberty, Minerva, and many others.

One of Set Missing

Among her unusual buttons are three of the famous set of four Teddy Roosevelt buttons, Rhinoceros, Tiger Hunt, and The Lion. Mrs. Edler has never been able to secure the fourth, The Rough Rider.

While she has never estimated the worth of her collection, Mrs. Edler plans some day to make this and then have it insured.

"Many of my most valued buttons were given to me," she said, when questioned about where she had secured them. She has exchanged buttons with people in many states and several foreign countries. Only recently she received blackout buttons from a woman in England. In this way Mrs. Edler has become "acquainted by mail" with people over a wide area, and she carries on a personal correspondence with several.

Some of the buttons are mounted in attractive designs on cardboard, and Mrs. Edler has also made the usual "Hobby Horse" of buttons which many button collectors make. She has mounted some flower buttons in brilliant colors to form a "picture of a flower basket" and this is framed in an antique oval picture frame.

She has made a rug of buttons, and a picture of a doghouse is made of buttons.

Mrs. Edler's collection includes over 1,000 jet buttons, more than 1,000 pearl buttons (inlaid and mother of pearl), porcelain and china buttons, the old porcelain plaque buttons, a very rare German carved ivory button, the pretty Lacy Sandwich class, the not so rare, but exquisitely attractive, paper weight buttons, the kaleidoscopes, ruby glass, milk and camphor glass buttons, metal, silver, gold, wooden, bone, rubber, glass, cloth, enamel, ringers and stencil buttons horn and hoof buttons. Even the goofy buttons are included in the lot.

Some from Czechoslovakia

The collection also includes the scarce pick buttons, and the attractive apple paper-weight buttons which came from Czechoslovakia in 1913.

In another group there are various shoe and spat buttons, many from the Gay Nineties and other decades. Unusual and pretty are the calico buttons. Some of the Chinese and Japanese buttons of the collection are artistically carved from ivory. There is also a set of old English shirtwaist buttons engraved on quarters.

Two other scarce buttons in the collection are the Little Boy Feeding the Bird, and an Austrian button "Tree of Life."

Among the more common collections are the uniform buttons, including the Pony Express, the military buttons of Canada, the United States, Germany, and other countries; the State buttons and the more common Reubens. There's a lithograph button of Marie Antoinette, the Jenny Lind buttons, and a tortoise shell (transparent) button from Paris, among the more prized buttons. But these are only a few of the 20,000.

Also Other Collections

While buttons are her specialty, Mrs. Edler has many antique pieces of furniture and glass in her home, and a collection of more than 1,000 miniature and unique bottles, some in the rare milk glass. Many of these were given to her when she was really looking for buttons.

Mrs. Edler is the former Blanche Roads and before she was married she lived with her mother, Mrs. F. P. Roads of 411 Firs avenue, Marion.

Also living in Marion are two brothers, Cecil of 407 Cherry street and Ted of 411 Firs avenue and two sisters, Mrs. Ferne Faux of 311 Pennsylvania avenue and Mrs. Edna Lacey of Davids street. Another brother, Joseph, lives in Shelby and another sister, Mrs. Durba Hartman, in Galion.

NIMITZ ASKS MERGER BILL BE CHANGED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 3—Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz declared today the "basic defects" of pending legislation to unify the army and navy could be remedied to eliminate navy fear of becoming the "weak link" in the national security chain.

Nimitz, appearing before the senate naval committee, closely followed the testimony, occasionally word for word, which Secretary of the Navy Forrestal gave Wednesday.

Like Forrestal, he found fault with provisions of the proposed merger that would create a supreme chief of staff and reduce the status of the army and navy departments to that of agencies. He echoed his chief that the plan does not provide unity at all and no organization details have been worked out.

"The basic defects * * * should be remedied by restoring the military and naval services to independent department status," he suggested, 'and by vesting in their secretaries all direct administrative responsibility and authority."

This, Nimitz said, would free from administrative duties the "director of national security" that the navy has advocated in its plan for the postwar defense set-up. Nimitz added that the proposed director would thus be able to concentrate as deputy chairman of a council of national security responsible for coordinating foreign, military and economic policies. The President would be chairman.

Nimitz "definitely recommended" that three provisions be included in any reorganization legislation.

1. No service will attempt to restrict in any way the means and weapons used by another service in carrying out its functions.

2. No service will attempt to restrict in carrying out their funcitons.

3. Each service will lend the utmost assistance possible to the other services in carrying out their functions.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Social Diseases

No class of sufferers has benefited more from the discovery of penicillin and the sulfonamide drugs than those infected with the social disease known as gonorrhea.

First came the sulfonamide drugs. They gave what were then considered remarkably rapid cures. With penicillin, results were obtained even more swiftly, a complete cure sometimes resulting after a single injection of this new magic into a muscle.

Experience, however, has shown that in some patients the disease will resist the action of one or the other of these powerful agents. For this reason, some doctors are coming to believe that the best treatment for the acute stages of this disease is a combination of penicillin and the sulfonamides. If one is not effective, the other will be and no time will be lost in experimentation.

Doctor Ralph D. Alley of New York City also believes that the action of one of these drugs helps the other to perform its healing work.

In a series of 105 patients with an acute infection, Doctor Alley found the combination treatment cured all of them. In the first 43 patients in carrying out the treatment, he gave sulfathiazole, repeating in four hours, and thereafter, every four hours, in reduced dosage, for five days. On the second day of treatment, he gave the penicillin by injection into a muscle every three hours. In every case examination for the presence of gonococcus germs showed them to be absent by the end of the third day of the treatment.

Although these results with the first 43 cases were satisfactory, he decided to attempt even more rapid cures. Accordingly, in the second series of 62 patients, he doubled the amount of penicillin. Again all of the patients were cured but only two patients had a discharge following treatment while in the first series six had a discharge.

Of course, the earlier treatment is started, the more rapid cures will result. It has been found that the virulence of the germs varies in different localities. Hence, an exact dosage of penicillin and sulfathiazole or other sulfonamide drug cannot be set down for use in all instances.

The physician must decide in each case what preparations to employ and in what amounts. Of course, the larger the doses of penicillin which are employed, the better will be the results up to a certain point. If an excessive amount of penicillin is given, a large amount is eliminated through the kidneys and lost.

However, the cases which were studied and treated by Dr. Alley would appear to show that the combined use of penicillin and the sulfonamide preparations seems to give better results than the use of either alone.

Programs on the Air

As a rule radio doesn't do much talking on its own air channels about its critics, particularly those who hit at its program lifeblood, but on CBS at 12 noon Sunday it'll be different. People's Platform, weekly forum, has picked this question: "Would Government Supervision Improve Radio Programs?"

On one side will be Charles A. Siepmann, who wrote a book, "Radio's Second Chance," critical of the microphone fare. He also aided in the preparation of the recent federal communications commission report dealing with commercial programs.

On the other will be Sydney Kaye, executive vice president of Broadcast Music, Inc., and attorney for broadcasters. The debate will take place at Columbus, where Ohio State's annual Institute for Education by Radio is in session.

ATHENS, O., May 3—More than 100 friends and associates paid tribute last night to Charles H. Harris following his retirement as managing editor of the Athens Messenger after 40 years with the daily.

Attended by many of the paper's 97 correspondents and Messenger staff members, the gathering was addressed by:

LIMA EVENS SERIES WITH LOOSE PLAYING CARDINALS 4-1

All Terrier Runs Unearned As Fass Hurls Five-Hitter

Special to The Star

LIMA, May 4—Behind the steady pitching of Lefty Walt Stangry, Lima evened its season series with Marion at two games apiece here Friday night, scoring a 4-1 victory.

Stangry held the Cards to four hits in the first eight innings and had a shutout until two were out in the ninth.

Fred Fass, Marion hurler, pitched in tough luck as all four Lima runs were unearned. He gave only five hits to the seven the Cards collected off Stangry.

The Terriers scored in the first inning on a walk to Broeckler who moved to second as Stevens was being tossed out. Reside was safe when McFarland dropped a throw from Schneider with Broecker taking third. On a successful double steal, Broecker scored.

Lima got two more in the fifth when Smith went to second as Haley threw wildly to first on his grounder. Stangry was safe on Simpson's boot with Smith taking third. Oder forced Stangry at second with Smith scoring.

Coal Shortage Dims Out Richmond

Until settlement of the coal strike, all baseball games at Richmond, Ind., of the Ohio State league will be played in the afternoon, it was learned today. The city is reported down to 20 days' supply of soft coal and has curtailed all unnecessary uses of electric power.

Oder stole second and when Rapp threw into center field and Perini missed the overthrow, he came all the way home.

Lima's final run came in the sixth after two were out on a walk to Moore, another error by Haley on Shook's roller and a single to right by Smith.

In the ninth Broecker lost Simpson's liner in the lights and it went for a single. One-baggers by Dix and Haley plated Simpson. Stangry walked, pinch-hitter Lilly to load the bases but Frey popped out to end the game.

The contest, played in 40-degree temperature, took only an hour and 37 minutes which may rank as the swiftest contest of the year come next fall.

The Cardinals moved into Newark today for a series with the Moundsmen, who with Zanesville and Lima are now all knotted up with Marion in a 4-way tie for third with a percentage of .500.

The Cards and Moundsmen play tonight then tie into a double header Sunday.

Douglas Nicholson will pitch tonight, Roseberry and Seyfried in tomorrow's double header, Manager Wally Schang said.

Rain again left Springfield and Richmond comfortably perched atop the Ohio State league standing today as Zanesville and Lima added victories to their record, drawing second place into a four-way tie.

The Lima Terriers' 4 to 1 win over Marion and Zanesville's 12 to 4 defeat of Newark last night tied those four teams with percentages of .500. Wet grounds postponed the Dayton game at Springfield and the Middletown-Richmond affair at Richmond.

Middletown and Dayton continued at the bottom of the league standings with one loss and no wins each.

At Zanesville, center fielder De Witt was the individual star with a home run inside the park with two men on in the seventh inning and a spectacular catch in the ninth.

Last night's line score:

Zanesville	100 130 52x—12 7 5

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sam Zoldak, an obscure lefthander from Brooklyn, N. Y., who spent two long years trying to convince Manager Luke Sewell that he could be a big league winner if given the chance, gives promise of establishing himself as the ace of the St. Louis Browns mound staff.

The Polish portsider, who pitched the Browns into third place in the American league yesterday with a seven-hit 5-1 victory over the Washington Senators, earned his spurs the hard way.

After waiting two full seasons—until the very last day of the 1945 campaign—to receive his initial starting assignment in the big time, all the 23-year-old youngster had to do was outpitch the fabulous Bobby Feller. The Cleveland fireballer pitched a five-hitter that day but Zoldak went him one better, winning the game 2-1 with a four-hitter.

In 1944 he appeared in 18 games and pitched 39 inning but was not concerned in any decision.

As good as was Zoldak's work, there were three better pitching performances yesterday in a day when the hurling far outclassed the hitting. No less than three shutouts were turned in with Allen Gettel's probably the most significant. Gettel thwarted the Detroit Tigers with only two hits as the New York Yankees handed the world champions their fifth straight defeat 2-0.

The victory came at the expense of Dizzy Trout, an old Yankee nemesis.

Johnny Schmitz, Chicago Cubs' left hander, was credited with a 1-0 shutout over the New York Giants but a fine relief job by Hi Bithorn made it possible. Schmitz was driven from the mound in the ninth inning when the Giants loaded the bases with one out, but Bithorn stepped up to the Hill and fanned the next two batters to save the game.

Al Jurisich, Philadelphia Phils' righthander purchased from the St. Louis Cardinals last winter, blanked the Cincinnati Reds 1-0 with four hits to record his second victory.

Harding's Owens Shuts Out Richwood 3-0

Jack Owens pitched two-hit ball yesterday at Lincoln park to hurl Harding High to its fifth straight win of the season, defeating Richwood High 3 to 0. Both blows given up by Owens came in the second inning. One of them was a fluke slow rolling ball that Nick Wall beat out for a hit.

Owens pitched himself out of the hole the two hits put him in and was never in trouble thereafter. He fanned nine batters and except for Richwood's threat in the second, set all opposing batters down one, two, three.

Harding's first two runs came in the third inning when Ralston singled, advanced on two walks and was driven in on a blow by Weber when he beat the play at the plate. Weber came in later on a fielder's choice.

In the fifth, Davis, a tough luck pitcher who gave up only four hits, walked Huddle home and was relieved by L. Wall. The relief pitcher smothered Harding's efforts for the rest of the game.

Tuesday at 4 p. m. the Prexies will play Claridon at Lincoln park and Wednesday they will play host to Bucyrus. Thursday they will travel to Columbus for the first game of a three-day district tournament.

Harding's opponent at the district tournament will be selected at a drawing Monday.

Colonels Get Chance To Climb Into First

By The Associated Press

Louisville's Colonels, American Association playoff series champions last year, have a chance to bounce into first place over the weekend.

The Colonels are in the runnerup spot as the league's eastern teams moved to new cities in the first western invasion of the young season.

St. Paul, in first place, with a game and a half lead, meet the Colonels in one game today and two tomorrow.

The Colonels and Saints both won yesterday to keep things even. St. Paul edged out a 2-1 victory over Indianapolis and Louisville battered Minneapolis for 16 hits and a 9-4 victory.

Milwaukee, 1945 champion in the won-lost columns, beat Columbus, 8-4, in the only other game played. Rain forced postponement of the Toledo-Kansas City game.

Pitcher Leonard Gilmore of the Brewers had little trouble with Columbus except in the fifth inning when pinch batter Augie Bergamo hit a two-run homer.

FELLER SEEKS TO END TRIBE'S LOSING STREAK

Boston Slated to Turn Out Full House for Bob.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, May 4—Blazin Bob Feller, fresh from his no-hit performance against the New York Yankees, attempts to snap the Cleveland Indians out of a three-game losing streak when he hurls against the Boston Red Sox today before a capacity crowd of more than 34,000.

Feller opposes a former teammate, Jim Bagby.

A revised lineup which placed emphasis on right-handers produced improved hitting for the Indians yesterday but the pace-setting Red Sox won their eighth consecutive victory, 9 to 4.

The loss was the Tribe's fourth in six starts on the road and dropped the club another notch into sixth place.

The Indians banged out nine hits, including Pat Seerey's second homer of the season, but southpaw Mickey Harris, several times on the verge of being yanked, had the breaks with him and went the distance for his fourth triumph in as many starts.

Boston did a little healthy slugging also, blasting 12 blows.

REDS TRY ANDREWS

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 4—Nate Andrews, Cincinnati's hard luck pitcher, gets another chance to break into the win column today when he faces the Philadelphia Phillies.

The last-place Phillies dumped the Reds into seventh place yesterday with a 1-0 triumph fashioned by Al Jurisich and his four-hit pitching. It was the Reds' first shut-out defeat of the season.

Emil Verban, second baseman acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals earlier this week, was the batting star of the contest and scored the winning run in the seventh.

LOUISVILLE BULGES WITH DERBY CROWD

Miss Truman in Record Jam at Annual Classic.

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4—Climaxing a celebration that was like all the New Year's Eves on Broadway rolled into one, the richest Kentucky Derby of them all comes off today before what promises to be one of the greatest throngs ever to see a horse race in America.

There were 17 three-year-olds slated to go to the post for the $96,400 winner's end of a $100,000 pot at 5:15 p. m. as the traditional "My Old Kentucky Home" throbbed over picturesque Churchill Downs. And it was still Lord Boswell as the horse to beat in a wide-open gallop in the mud and slop of six days of rain.

Derbytown was bulging at the seams and the stitches.

Hotel lobbies looked like subways at rush hour. Bars resembled nylon lines.

The president's daughter, Margaret Truman, was on hand along with the French Ambassador Henri Bonnet, Treasury Secretary Fred Vinson and Attorney General Tom Clark.

With most of the customers out for all the fun they could find, the classic that brought them here did not seem to bother much, although with the largest field in nine years—if none scratches—it figured to be considerably better than just a fair country horse race.

Heading the three horse entry of the Maine Chance Farm of Mrs. Elizabeth Graham, otherwise known as cosmetics queen Elizabeth Arden, Lord Boswell was the solid choice. He can run on lightning fast or chocolate pudding footing, and with big, rangy Knockdown, the Santa Anita derby winner, and Perfect Bahram, the inexperienced swiftie, as his teammates, it was the big hand.

Many saw it, too, as Eddie Arcaro against the field. He had Lord B to ride as he went out after his fourth derby triumph and a new record for jockeys.

Prexies Cancel Galion, Kenton Meet Booked

NEW BLOOMINGTON WINS WAY TO "WORLD SERIES"

To Meet Pleasant Tuesday for County Title.

Pleasant and New Bloomington will meet in the "Little World Series" Tuesday as the result of New Bloomington's 26 to 10 win over Green Camp yesterday at Green Camp.

Originally slated to run three days the series has been cut to one game owing to a lack of pitchers at both schools. The two participants agreed to limit the series to one playoff game.

The field of combat for the New Bloomington-Pleasant game has not yet been decided. Negotiations are underway to get Lincoln Park but conflicting schedules may cause it to be played at one of the schools. The time is undecided.

Line score for yesterday's game:

	R.	H.	E.
New Bloom.	462 009 5—26	20	3
Green Camp	041 120 2—10	5	8

Batteries: Tucker and Shaber; Jerew, Curren and Long.

IRISH NINE TO INVADE HARPSTER FIELD MONDAY

Moran Slated To Try To Repeat 15-2 Victory.

The Irish of St. Mary will play a return game with Harpster Monday on the Harpster field with the same batteries as Thursday's game in which St. Mary won 15 to 2.

Both schools suffer from a dearth of starting pitchers so it will be Moran on the mound for the Irish and Ralph Roseberry for the Harpsterites.

Dunn will catch Moran and the rest of Thursday's starting lineup will be back at their old jobs. Irvin will be on first base, Burke at second, Baldauf at third, Wintersteller at short, Weis in left field, Pruzzo in center and Sampson in right.

KENNETH A. ROBINSON
REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR State Representative

Kenneth A. Robinson has been a practicing attorney and member of the firm of Wilhelm & Robinson, attorneys, Marion, Ohio, since 1927. A graduate of Marion City schools, Harding High School and Ohio Northern University, he has been active in politics and was formerly City Solicitor of Marion. He served in the armed forces from April, 1942, to November, 1945, and is the only Marion County veteran of World War II seeking nomination at the Republican Primary May 7th.

He is opposed for the nomination by the present incumbent, Earl E. Thomas, who is seeking his seventh successive nomination as the Republican candidate for this office.

Robinson's experience as a city official and practicing attorney well qualifies him for the office he is seeking. He promises the voters courtesy, cooperation and fair treatment, and assures the Republican party of a candidate who will conduct a vigorous and constructive campaign in the fall election. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

Story of PT Boats Coming

"They Were Expendable" To Show at Marion Theater Sunday and Monday.

"They Were Expendable" starring Robert Montgomery, John Wayne, and Donna Reed, and "The Undercover Woman" with Stephanie Bachelor and Robert Livingston will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Marion theater.

The former is a dramatic story of a gallant group of PT skippers who find themselves expendable in the fight to slow the Japanese offensive. The story in the latter deals with mystery and excitement and tells how a beautiful young private detective solves a murder which she has been called upon to investigate.

"This Gun For Hire" starring Alan Ladd and Veronica Lake, and "These Three" with Merle Oberon, Joel McCrea, and Miriam Hopkins will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

"These Three" tells how an ugly lie invented by a unruly student in a private girls' school, involving her two teachers and a doctor, brought disaster into the innocent lives of the three people.

"Dark Alibi" starring Sidney Toler as Charlie Chan, and "Roaring Rangers" with Charles Starrett and Smiley Burnette will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

In the former, a mystery comedy-drama, Charlie Chan, a detective, is faced with one of his most baffling cases as he attempts to prevent an innocent man from being sentenced to death. The story of "Roaring Rangers" takes place during the railroad land boom of the last century with Charles Starrett as the Durango Kid working against three villians and their henchmen to bring law and order to a town which had been open to gun-shooting inhabitants.

"George White's Scandals" Tops State's Pictures

"George White's Scandals" starring Joan Davis and Jack Haley, and "Trail to Vengeance" with Kirby Grant and Fuzzy Knight will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State theater.

"I Love a Mystery" with Jim Bannon and Nina Foch, and "The Master Race" with George Coulouris and Stanley Ridges will be shown Tuesday and Wednesday.

"It's a Pleasure" with Sonja Henie and Michael O'Shea, and "Robbers of the Range" starring Tim Holt and Virginia Vale will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

"The Bells of St. Mary's" On Palace Theater Bill for Week

Cast Headed by Ingrid Bergman and Bing Crosby, Academy Award Winners.

"The Bells of St. Mary's," starring Bing Crosby and Ingrid Bergman, and directed by Leo McCarey, three academy award winners, will be shown for an entire week, Sunday through Saturday, at the Palace theater.

A story of life in a parochial school enriched with humor and homely philosophy, Bing Crosby portrays the same character, that of Father O'Malley, that he played with such great success in "Going My Way." As the newly appointed pastor of the St. Mary's parochial school, Crosby as Father O'Malley has his own ideas of educating the young children. He also finds that his ideas do not always correspond with those of the nuns under the leadership of the Sister Superior, Sister Benedict, played by Ingrid Bergman. However, a sense of humor on both sides unites them in their spiritual labors on behalf of humanity.

When the very existence of the school is threatened by a wealthy and cynical land-lover, played by Henry Travers, who wants the space where the school is located as a parking lot for the grand new building he is erecting next door, Father O'Malley and the nuns join forces and in their individual ways, accomplish a surprising and gratifying result. Also the life of a little neglected girl, Patsy, is replanned for her at St. Mary's through Father O'Malley and Sister Benedict.

Short features to be shown with the feature picture are "Foxy Flat Foots" and the latest Paramount News.

Walk in the Sun Comes To Ohio

"A Walk in the Sun," which is one of the great, and possibly the greatest of the war pictures made from World War II, is now playing through Monday at the Ohio theater. The cast includes Dana Andrews, Richard Conte, George Tyne, John Ireland, Lloyd Bridges, Sterling Holloway, Norman Lloyd and many others.

Based on the novel of the same name by Harry Brown, "A Walk in the Sun" is the story of a platoon—"going down the valley one by one"—that hit the Salerno Beach and got as far as a farm house six miles inland, with its members living and dying before your very eyes. The tragedy, heroism, and cowardice of war is largely and fully represented in a platoon of men as it is in the mass movement of troops across a hundred-mile front.

"Dragonwyck," one of the most widely-discussed and best-selling novels of the time, will be shown for 10 days starting Tuesday. Starred in the picture is Gene Tierney, Walter Huston, Vincent Price and Glenn Langan.

Set against the background of the turbulent anti-rent rebellion period of the early 19th Century, "Dragonwyck," a romantic drama, enfolds the story of a secret love that brought with it a world of rapture and terror in a very unusual plot. Gene Tierney plays the role of Miranda, a wistful and sensitive country girl who is gripped in the power of a secret love that leads to rapture and terror. Walter Huston is her stern and stubborn father.
